WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Norway people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Albert F. Prescott, shoemaker, Crockett Bridge, Norway, says: "My kidneys gave out and I had backache so badly it put me past going for several days. I couldn't bend, I was so stiff and lame. I was working in the ship yards at the time and I blame so much heavy lifting for the trouble. I had to get up several times during the night to pass the kidney secretions and I felt drowsy all the time. Finally I went to Stone's Drug Store and got Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. Doan's reached my case at once and after using three boxes, the trouble left entirely. I have felt fine since."

NORTH WATERFORD

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Marston and Ralph Hatch visited Saturday and Sunday at Bridgeport.

Mrs. E. J. Paige who is now 83 years old fell over a block of wood in her stable Saturday, striking on her face breaking her glasses. That cut a gash about an inch over the eye, and making several black and blue places on her face beside turning her right hand and wrist so she can not use it. It is very badly swollen but does not pain her very much.

John Evans is working at Jesse Littlefield's and has put a new sill under the house and moved a partition between the kitchen and dining room and will put in cupboards. Charles Berry is plastering over head as well as the side wall.

Mary Dresser has been at home here a few days.

There was a large crowd at the "Spasm" Saturday night, Oct. 27. Another "Spasm" in two weeks.

Archie Stearns and family are moving to Stoneham into the house he purchased some time ago.

Velma Hobson has been home from her school at Norway from Thursday until Monday.

Annie Hazelton picked enough ripe wild raspberries Sunday so she had quite a meal of them served with cream and sugar.

Mrs. W. L. Flint was a guest of Annie Hazelton, Friday.

Mrs. Lois Littlefield returned to Lovell Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Nason and party.

Merle Barker is a guest at Merle Morse's.

Mrs. Jesse Littlefield and children, Willis, Merline and Edith were at South Paris, Saturday afternoon.

Rice Neighborhood

Mrs. George Rice and children spent last Thursday afternoon and evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Chadbourne of Auburn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Saunders.

Maybelle Hersey had a birthday party Saturday afternoon in honor of her sixth birthday. Those present were Elizabeth Holt, Raynor Brown, Rufus Rice and Ella Rice.

The Bridgeport Academy scholars all came home Wednesday night for the rest of the week on account of Teachers' Convention in Portland.

South Paris Saturday to attend a meeting of the Farmers' Union.

Guy Rice is working for Chas. P. Saunders.

The preaching service beginning next Sunday Nov. 4 is at 10:45, Sunday school at 12, Christian Endeavor at 7 P. M.

Mrs. Chas. Hersey and Alfred Hersey went to Norway, Thursday.

Wallace Jones is hauling apples for E. B. Hersey & Son to Norway, while Chas. Hersey is packing them.

Mrs. E. Clinton Miller and men are building the tomb at East Stoneham.

Elmer Andrews, who has been sick, is so to be out again.

Bethel Kendall spent Tuesday night with her cousin, Etta Rowe.

John Fox is home from Gould's Academy over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kendall and family Mary Kendall and Amy Chayer attended the Harvest Supper at East Stoneham, Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrington Rowe and three children visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loris McCreedy, Sunday.

Those having 100% in spelling at the Slab City School for the week ending Oct. 26 were the following: Etta Rowe, Lewis Rowe, Pauline Kendall and Lillian Towle. Amy Chayer as teacher.

Bert Kendall and family and Amy Chayer visited in Fryeburg, Sunday.

Mildred Pottle of Fryeburg spent the week end at Elmer Andrews's.

Adna Rowe went to Norway, Sunday and took dinner with Fred Pierce.

WATERFORD

Maude Witham returned Friday from a visit with her cousin, Mrs. Everett Gay in Casco.

Miss Gage left for Worcester, Mass. last Thursday, taking Marion Stone with her to visit relatives on the way.

The Halloween circle held Friday night was a great success. A very nice supper and a fine entertainment.

Frank Jewell from Norway is working for Ned Stone and boards with the Dugges.

Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Rideout are both used up with bad colds and coughs.

Mrs. Emmie Foss of Portland is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. Rex Rounds.

Mrs. Wolfe and Miss Moore took Carrie Plummer and Mrs. Henry Billings to Portland Monday in their auto.

Found Dead on Porch
Elbridge Stone died very suddenly Monday noon. He came to the village in the morning. They found him sitting on the porch dead.

ONE SIDED PEOPLE

There are many people whose opinion on any given set of circumstances can be predicted in advance with perfect accuracy. If they are Republicans everything the Republicans do is all right. Everything the Democrats do is all wrong. Similarly if they are Democrats, their opinions are equally fixed in advance.

Certain people in an industrial controversy always take the capitalistic point of view. They find that the capitalists are always wrong, they are robbers and parasites on society, and that the wage earners are always right, and strive merely for economic justice, which is all they ask.

People with fixed notions could not possibly get a new idea into their heads. They will go to their graves with these immovable opinions.

Life is bigger and broader than these narrow opinions. The world is gradually advancing, and there are good folks and bad folks in all classes. The possession of money does not necessarily make a man aascal, and lack of it does not necessarily make him lazy and indolent.

Human society is full of oscillations. At one time the greatest peril may come from one political party and one element of people. When that party or that element gets too much power, it in turn becomes arrogant and over-reaching. The man who wants to be a good citizen must be an original thinker and a constant reader of the news, so that he can know what is going on and be able to weigh men and events impartially.

OLD ROVER—SHEEP-KILLER

In a rather densely populated region of the Middle West last winter farmers complained of being annoyed by wolves. The chief loss was of sheep, though pigs and calves were also reported killed. A wolf hunt on a large scale was organized in one township, and some two hundred men, horse and foot, sallied forth to round up the predatory beasts. No wolf was "bagged" by this crowd, though two or three were killed by individuals at other times. About the same time there was an epidemic of sheep-killing among the dogs of the vicinity. Some thought that the number of the wolves was exaggerated, and that most of the killing was done by dogs. In any case it may have been that the wolves set the example of killing, and that the dogs, having found partially eaten carcasses where wolves had left them, acquired the taste for mutton in that way.

Wolves or no wolves, however, dogs do kill sheep now and then in every sheep-raising community. "Sheep-killing dog" is a synonym with farmer folk for all that is low and vile. But the fact is usually brought out by investigation that it is the half-starved dog that is the leader in sheep-killing. And it is not the homeless tramp dog alone that is habitually hungry. We are told nowadays that even children of well-to-do families may be under-nourished, and no one ever suspects it. Many persons let their dogs go hungry through forgetfulness, or because they under-estimate a dog's capacity for the need of food. Many who can ill afford to keep one dog keep two or three on a starvation diet. I have known an old, almost toothless dog, belonging to a kindly disposed family, try to kill sheep, and to a sort of leader of the killers. His owners failed to provide him with animal food such as he could eat. The dog is carnivorous, but many dogs are fed no meat except the little that may cling to bones thrown them occasionally.

The dog's "open season" for sheep is winter, and one reason why dogs roam abroad on winter nights is that they are not provided with comfortable quarters at home. The dog should have a good kennel with plenty of warm bedding. With this and sufficient food, he will not be easily tempted to kill sheep. The kindest thing to do with the tramp dog, or the dog one is not able or willing to keep as he should be kept, is to give him a painless death—though I should feel that I must give him a square meal first!

If there is any place where humaneness is at a premium—that is, in dollars and cents—it is on the farm. It is not "sentiment" alone, though we should not be ashamed of what is called sentiment toward our animal friends. It actually pays to be humane.

Do You Know--

Who owns the electric light and power companies which serve you?

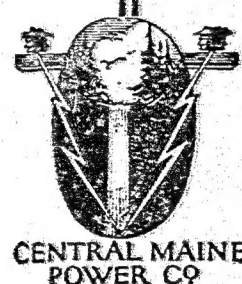

He is none other than the average, every day newspaper-reading, lawn-sprinkling, fliver-tinkering, radio-listening, bread-winning individual. The man who lives next door—the worker who provides that with which the family bills are paid—he is the man who owns the power companies of the United States.

A Maine power company that is owned by more Maine people than any other public utility in Maine is Central Maine Power Company.

Already nearly 11,000 Maine people—not a one of whom ever missed a dividend—have placed their earnings in a stable hydro-electric company that will, we feel sure, always pay dividends.

Because our security has an unbroken dividend record of 18 years—because our Company is owned and managed by Maine people—because our business is to manufacture and sell a commodity that few people will willingly do without in good times or bad—we believe that the 7% Preferred Stock of Central Maine Power Company offers the best investment opportunity for the average, every-day investor of Maine.

The price is $107.50 a share. The yield is 6½% net.

RADIO RECEIVING SETS

Article 1. Single-Circuit Regenerative Receiver

By Harry Fy. Dart, E. E. Compiler of the Radio Operator's Course for the International Correspondence Schools.

The radio enthusiast who saves his money to buy a radio tube naturally and rightfully wants to get the maximum amount of energy from it. Because of refined circuits and their inherent properties it is possible to secure very good signal reproduction over a very great range of wave-lengths and great distance. With proper construction, adjustments and operations a single-circuit regenerative receiver will give an exceptionally good signal strength without reasonable freedom from distortion and from interference from signals on other wave-lengths.

Every word in the title of this article is descriptive of the set to be considered. A single-circuit set is briefly one that uses a single tuned circuit that is common to both the antenna and tube circuit.

The regenerative-receiver feature implies that in this type of receiver energy is fed from the plate circuit of the tube back into the grid circuit, which energy is further strengthened as it again passes through the tube.

A wiring diagram of a simple type of single-circuit regenerative receiver is shown in the accompanying figure connected with the antenna a and the ground b. The antenna circuit must be tuned to the desired wave-length in order to secure selectivity of signals, and in order that the signals may be as strong as possible. The inductance coil c and the condenser d are, therefore, made so that their electrical properties may be adjusted to tune the set to pick up signals from the desired sending station. Coil c is sometimes a variometer of large size, but more often is merely a tapped coil for securing approximately wave-length adjustment. The variable condenser d is then used to secure more accurate and final tuning to the desired station. On powerful nearby stations this condenser will not have so much influence, but it will be found to be very critical in tuning the set to weak signals. In fact in such cases a vernier condenser or control may be considered a necessity for best results.

The last of the tuning coil c is the grid of the tube (shown connected first to condenser e) is connected in the figure to the antenna lead which goes to coil c. In some instances a separate switch arm and set of taps is used for the connection between coil c and the grid lead, but this refinement is seldom used or warranted.

The .00025-microfarad grid condenser e is ordinarily of the fixed mica type. For proper detector action of the present day types of tubes, the grid condenser should be shunted by a high resistance grid leak of 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 ohms. This is indicated in the figure just below the grid condenser.

The three-element electron tube f may be any one of the standard makes now on the market. The filament or A battery g should be one able to supply the requisite filament-heating current for the tube without too rapid deterioration. A storage battery should be used with the high-voltage current tubes, while dry cells will be entirely satisfactory on those tubes of low filament power consumption.

The rheostat h controls the filament current, and the tube's operation. The resistance should be about 10 ohms, and one of 30 ohms will be found more generally useful, especially if various tubes are to be used. It is very desirable that the filament current of a detector tube be controlled very accurately. A ventriloquist rheostat, or a modified type of carbon pile resistance unit, will give very well in securing accurate control.

A plate-circuit coil i performs the actual feed-back or regenerative action by transferring part of the energy from the plate circuit back into the input coil in the grid circuit. The signal which has been rectified and amplified to give a very strong output. The feed-back or tickler coil i is generally arranged so it may be rotated to give anywhere from zero to maximum feed-back effect by a 90° movement.

Another method for securing regeneration is to use a tapped coil mounted fairly close to the main tuning coil. More or less feed-back effect is secured by using a greater or smaller number of turns of the tapped coil. In one very good arrangement, half of the plate-circuit turns are wound on the end of the main tuning coil, and at least one-half inch away from the main winding. Rotation of the other half of the plate winding, which is mounted on a rotor much like a variometer, will cause its effect to help or buck the stationary part of the coil, and thus increase or decrease the feed-back effect. With this type receiver, it will be found in general that the selectivity is greatest when used on a short antenna, and when the feed-back effect is a maximum without producing oscillations in the set.

The telephone receivers j should be of any good standard make, and cheap ones should be avoided. The B battery at k should be about 22½ to 45 volts for best operation on the usual type of hard (high vacuum) detector tubes. On soft (gas) tubes it is well to try various plate potential values, in the neighborhood of 10 to 25 volts until the one is found that gives best results.

As there is a radio-frequency current in the plate circuit, it is well to place a small condenser of about .01-microfarad capacity in parallel with the telephone receivers and B battery. This will act as a by-pass for the radio-frequency currents around the telephone receivers and B battery.

His Deduction.

"Land o' the livin'!" ejaculated Mrs. Johnson in the midst of her reading. "It says here in the paper that a bunch of scientific professors are going to Africa to hunt for humans with tails!" "Uh-huh!" nonchalantly replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "What do they aim to do when they find 'em? tie 'em in tin cans to 'em?"—Kansas City Star.

OXFORD COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETING

Two hundred people from all parts of the county were in attendance at the annual meeting of the County Farm Bureau, Saturday. The general meeting opened at eleven o'clock with an address by President Conant of Buckfield. The reports of project leaders followed and the following reported: Mrs. H. W. Starbird, clubs; Mrs. H. A. Knightly, clothing; A. L. Sanderson, crops; L. E. McIntire, dairy; E. A. Barker, farm management; T. E. Chase, orchard; B. M. Clifford, poultry.

Dinner was served by the South Paris Grange. During the noon hour the nominating committee, consisting of C. E. Spring, Brownfield, J. M. Wyman, Norway, Mrs. B. L. Ames, Canton, and Mrs. E. A. Barker, Bethel, met to nominate the county officers. Officers nominated and unanimously elected for the coming year were as follows:

President, A. P. Stearns, Jr., Paris.
Vice-President, C. E. Spring, Canton.
Sec'y-Treas., H. H. Homan, Norway.
Club, Mrs. H. W. Starbird, Paris.
Clothing, Mrs. H. A. Knightly, Norway.
Crops, A. L. Sanderson, Waterford.
Dairy, L. E. McIntire, Waterford.
Farm Management, E. A. Barker, Bethel.
Forestry, R. N. Lowell, Hiram.
Fruit, T. E. Chase, Buckfield.
Household Management, Mrs. Leslie Abbott, Woodstock.

Mr. W. H. Conant who has served the organization for three years since it's start, handed in his resignation which was accepted with regret. The membership unanimously adopted the following programs of work, as presented by the county agent and home demonstration agent of the Extension Service, for the coming year: Men's division: Clubs. Crops: time demonstrations, top dressing campaign, potato and seed plots. Dairy: cow test association, pasture improvement demonstrations. Farm management: farm accounts, dairy supplement, one-day meetings. Forestry: timber estimating demonstrations. Orchard: fertilizer demonstrations, community planting. Poultry: selecting breeder demonstrations, live vs dressed poultry demonstrations.

The organization is in a very flourishing condition. 230 members were reported at the annual meeting even though the real membership campaign had not started, and it is expected that at least one thousand members will be lined up this year. This would compare with a membership of 264 when the organization started three years ago.

BOOST MAINE AND OXFORD COUNTY

When the State of Maine Special returned from the West its passengers were convinced that what our state needs more than anything else in the world is to acquire that wonderful spirit of optimism, co-operation and faith in the possibilities of their part of the country which they found in all sections of the West.

Maine is the one great undeveloped state of the East. The citizens of this great state are only beginning to realize just a little that Maine has a wonderful future before her. No other section of New England is so rich in natural resources. Aroostook County, an area almost equal in size to Massachusetts has done things in an agricultural way that would do credit to any part of the West.

Here in the hills of Oxford County can be grown the finest apples and sweet corn in the world and it has a market in Greater Boston and England that will compare favorably with any other fruit growing region. Our forests covering 15,000,000 acres out of 19,000,000 in our state together with our tremendous water powers are an untold source of wealth. Portland is destined to become the great city of Northern New England, and one of the great ports of America, providing a good market within our own borders for the products of Maine farms.

Norway is a town that has grown and made progress because its citizens have believed in Norway. They have always boosted their town and are going to keep right on boosting in the future. There is not one town in Oxford County but what has possibilities and advantage which if developed would make that town more prosperous, a better town in every way, a town which would attract and hold more of its young people. There is no better section of our country than this Pine Tree State of ours and the intelligent, untiring efforts of its citizens will bring to Maine, to Oxford County and to Norway that measure of progress and prosperity rightfully her due.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women Who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 85 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my household work for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 15 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine. Many times they state in their letters their willingness to answer women who write them. It is an offer dictated by gratitude and a desire to help others.

Covered Wires Hide Cause

As you know, a B storage battery, like a B dry battery, also consists of a number of cells, each one a complete unit in itself producing a certain amount of electrical energy. From the first cell to the last this energy should follow a regular path. If it has the slightest opportunity, however, it will stray from this path, finding shortcuts for itself. When this occurs, the battery is said to leak electricity.

Electrical leakage causes disturbances in the circuit which issue from the phones in the form of noises. A very small amount of leakage can produce plainly noticeable sounds, because of the sensitive character of radio apparatus and, further, because amplifying appliances are frequently used.

A REMINDER OF STONEHAM'S EARLY DAYS

While making repairs at his home F. R. McAlister of East Stoneham discovered a Norway Advertiser printed in May 1899. A neighbor, Mrs. Raymond McAlister, saved fragments bearing items particularly interesting to readers acquainted with the townspeople of Stoneham, thirty odd years ago.

We learn from the documents, the following facts. Rug fever is raging and Mrs. Frank Moody has drawn a floor covering measuring a yard wide and seven feet long.

Smelts were nearly through running before the people knew the fish were there. Great was the disappointment. Dusty McAlister sowed peas on April 24 and Isaac McAlister did likewise on April 27. The spring is considered forward.

Jonathan Bartlett is running his mill day and night to saw a large amount of hard wood in record time.

Harry McKen has sold his meat business to his nephew LaForest McAlister. Ellsworth Meader is cutting wood for L. H. Burnham, while Mr. Burnham is busily engaged repairing buildings.

An article, "Story on History," by E. S. Jones, of recollections of Stoneham in the early days is of considerable local interest. The writer recalls landing in town in January 1865. He was 12 years of age and the trip overland from South Paris was a cold novelty. Then East Stoneham was scarcely a hamlet surrounding a store run by Samuel Rand, later operated by Bartlett & Son. Young people were scarce as practically every able bodied boy was in the Union Army. He remembered attending a soldier's funeral, that of Edward Small, held in a schoolhouse on the cross roads between Ricker's bridge and A. G. Smith's house. About this time, District No. 1 erected a two story building for school and religious purposes. In after years this became known as G. A. R. hall. Only two dwellings in town could be called two-story; one in the western part, later occupied by Fred McKen, and the "old hall" so called, with store down stairs and two tenements above. Both structures were razed by fire. From Colebrook to Waterford the public highway ran through forests heavily timbered. There were no houses between the G. W. Spear place and Phylete Saunders' residence in Waterford. Lynchville was not on the map, the place being known as Albany Cross Roads or "Mosquito Crossing."

The hamlet where H. L. Burnham operated a mill was called Barker's Mill with two or three small houses. The old Howe mill, washed away in 1895, was a busy place under "Jack Howe." His family occupied the old fashioned unpainted house which was burned in 1891. Probably there were no more than one or two carpeted floors in town. Tallow candles were used by the leading families who lived by fire places and cooked in brick ovens. Canned fruits and berries were unknown. Screens to protect against flies and mosquitos had not entered into the mind of man. A few jews harps and several "fiddles" comprised the musical instruments.

Only professional men and schoolmasters owned a watch. The old fashioned motherly woman spent her few leisure hours on patch work and knitting during an unceremonious call at a neighbors, she had no time for idle gossip.

Littlefield Hill was dotted with farms and several families lived there. The "Thousand Acres" locality boasted of several families. At "Birch Avenue" a settlement sprung up in 1871, like a mushroom and expired in a short time. The Ricker and Paul steam mill, manufacturing spool strips, ear timers and other dimension stuff, brought this rapid growth. McKen Hill boasted a sizable population.

The writer lamented the change about him and could find only a few land marks of early days.

Adding warmth to hospitality -

THE telephone rings on a blustery winter night—cold and windy. Father's on the wire—bringing a guest home for dinner and to stay all night. And the only guest room is the coldest in the house—the heat from the furnace at best simply will not get that far.

But with a Perfection Oil Heater your problem is easily solved. Its clean and quick heat will soon make the guest room a comfortable and genial place, and in the morning a touch of a match and a turn of the wick will repeat the magic. Your guest will undress and dress in comfort, and your reputation as a thoughtful hostess will be still further enhanced.

Your nearest dealer will be glad to demonstrate.

Drive away the Chill and

Save Your Coal

with an Electric Heater

Isn't your home chilly on these early fall mornings? Yet it doesn't pay to run the furnace wide open and waste your coal.The radiating warmth of an electric heater will drive away that morning and evening chill. It can be placed in any room in the house where there is a light socket by merely attaching the plug.The electric heater is especially suitable for the nursery, bath room or to warm up a cozy corner of the dining or living room.Get your electric heater now and let it pay for itself by the coal it will save.$6.98 Up*Central Maine Power Co.

SUBSTANTIAL CITIZENSThere is one class of people who never worry about high rents. They paint their houses any color that pleases their fancy. To them "moving day" is when the house across the way has new tenants. They seldom find it necessary to borrow at the bank, but when they do, little difficulty is encountered.

They are the home owners.

WINTER PROTECTION OF ANIMALSProtect your animals from the cold.
This will make them more comfortable, and will save you feed. Stop the holes in your barn. Board in your tie-up. An old horse, especially, like an old man, feels the cold.Blanket your horse on frosty nights in the Fall, when their coats are short. Give your horses and cattle a good bed. Bedding is cheap. Water your horse at least three times a day. The stomach of the horse is very small. Punctuality in feeding and watering the stock is very important. They will lose flesh if kept waiting beyond the regular time.A good grooming costs no money, and is equal to two quarts of oats. A horse cannot thrive on hay alone. He needs oats or corn for strength; and grass, bran or potatoes to keep his bowels right.
Keep your horses feet soft and have him shod often. More feet are ruined in the stable than on the road. Do not degrade your family by using a lame horse. Kill the worn-out or incurably lame horse. If you sell him, the money that you receive is blood money.CHEMICALS INCREASE HAY YIELDIncreased hay yields ranging from a half ton to nearly two tons have been received by a number of farmers in Oxford County who have been carrying on the new top dressing grassland demonstrations under the direction of County Agent Lovejoy. Careful weighings of demonstration plots were made by Mr.
Lovejoy and the data collected is as follows: Nitrate of soda and acid phosphate were the chemicals recommended, and in computing costs both the chemicals and labor of applying were reckoned.Net profits per acre vary from $2.70 to $10.30. H. A. Knightly of Norway secured the highest gain of $10.30, while
H. E. Verrill, of Hebron and H. E. Judson of South Paris follow with net gains of $8.92 and $8.80 respectively. The average net profit was $5.95 per acre. M.
E. Reed, Roxbury, F. A. Milton, Andover,
E. C. Buzzell, Fryeburg, E. A. Barker,
Bethel, and others received high returns.In the time work which Mr. Lovejoy has been carrying on, increased yields of nearly two tons of clover per acre were recorded. Wendell Dunn of Buck-field used one ton of lime per acre and secured an increased yield of 3584 lbs.
of hay. His net profit was $23.90 per acre. The average increase for all lime demonstrations was 1759 lbs. of hay with net profits averaging $8.13 per acre.ALLEN—WEST BETHEL

CONSTANT FIGHT ON CRABS

Destructiveness of the Crustaceans
In the West Indies Is Something Almost Beyond Belief.

The Asherman of Japan has a supreme contempt for the gigantic crab of his coast, which has uppers ten feet in length, and when moving along the bottom of the sea with its claws spread out covers an area of 22 feet or so.

The destructiveness of certain species of crab in the West Indies is remarkable, observes an exchange. They are great burrowers and in localities where they are plentiful—and they multiply with the rapidity of the rodent—nothing is safe from them. They will eat the eggs on which a hen is sitting, and just as readily the leaves of seedling coconut trees. They effect in the West Indies practically the same degree of destruction on the young coconuts as the sepoys do in the East Indies. In each instance some 8 to 11 per cent of the seedlings have to be replaced if they are planted in the newly cleared ground from which the crabs have not been thoroughly cleared out.

Too many girls go to doctors instead of their parents for advice.

Agricultural Club Notes

There are 27 pupils divided as follows: Juniors and Seniors 8; Sophomores 12; Freshmen 7.
This week the Juniors and Seniors are studying farm management, including the comparative merit of different fences, and purchasing farm machinery and equipment.

The Sophomores are figuring dairy rations and choosing proper feeds and mixtures. They have shop work and learning to lace machinery belts, among other things.

Fattening coops are under construction by the freshmen. Two coops are for class experiments where each member will invest $5 for cockerels to use in a three weeks fattening test and learn several things: (1) Buying and selling, (2) Feeding notes, (3) Process of killing, sticking for dry picking, plucking and dressing, (4) Shrinkage from dressed poultry. This lesson commences next week.

The class have built a battery of eight fattening coops for William Tucker, Norway Lake, and learned the use of tools and the cost of material. This battery will care for sixty-four hens or 30 spring chickens and are built to stand dard dimensions with first grade material.

Reports received from summer projects are satisfactory. One student with poultry showed a balance of $150 in cash, stock and equipment. One other planted 11 bushels of potatoes and harvested 274 bushels of Irish Cabbler and Green Mountain spuds of the best quality. His profits will be large. Others aid nearly as well during the vacation and are proving the practical side of the years instruction.

Last but not least is its social side which will develop as cold weather approaches. Basket ball will be featured and a strong "Argyle" team is in sight. Many other good times are in the process of making.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Marr of Durham and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Davis of Freeport were Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Everett's.

The Hallowe'en Social at the Universalist church vestry held under the auspices of the Y. P. C. U. Tuesday evening was a success. The evening was devoted to games.

Dr. Clarence T. Pratt, Osteopathic Physician has returned from a vacation in Portland and resumed his practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cail and son of Portland were guests Sunday of Ethel W. Small and Lottie B. Wentworth at the Nurses Home on Winter Street.

The members of the Loyal Order of Moose who desire to visit the Bridgton Lodge on Saturday, Nov. 3, will meet at the Moose hall at 4 o'clock.

Ralph Osgood spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. C. E. Osgood at Meredith Center, N. H. Mrs. Osgood returned with him for a visit.

Paul Seavary, "Yes, we'll start South for St. Petersburg the week of the 18th."

STORY OF BY-GONE DAYS

Twenty-Six Years Ago To-day

Electricity is the coming motive power. The shoe factory, Cummings's, is grating Mill House's lumber mill, McCrellis's and Steven's grain mill and the Norway Advertiser presses are connected with the Oxford Light Co. Shurtliff & Maxin's grain mill at South Paris recently installed a motor.

An extra story has been added to half of the Norway Steam Laundry on Temple street for the Benjamin R. Howard shop.

At a special town meeting held Saturday with Seward S. Stearns moderator, it was voted to sell town's shoe shop property to the Norway Shoe Co., price being one dollar and one cent. Men were authorized to execute the deed. Extensive repairs will be made at once, including a new boiler in the engine room and a quick heating fire protection boiler to be placed on Lynn street.

The biggest pocket of tourmalines ever opened on Mt. Mica was uncovered Monday. Several thousand dollars worth of pink and green gems were collected in a short time.

Norway and Paris Street Ry. want to carry the mail between the two towns. Many object believing close connections cannot be made as with the "dummy" on the branch. A government investigator is here looking into the matter.

Congregational Church Notes

Regular service Sunday morning at 10:45. The pastor will preach on a subject bearing on the Communion to follow the service.

Junior Christian Endeavor at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Nettie Johnson as superintendent, and a large attendance is expected. At the evening service, commencing at 7 o'clock, the pastor will speak upon the topic, "The Church and Its Place in the Present Age." Scripture reading Psalm 84:1-142. This will be discussed from the Community standpoint.

C. W. Class Notes

The C. W. Class and the Young Men's Class held a Hallowe'en Social at the vestry, Saturday evening. The decorations were of orange and black with numerous Jack-o-lanterns. Over thirty ghosts and goblins appeared and great was the fun trying to guess each other's name. Fred Walters and Katherine Richardson received the prizes for the best costumes. Mrs. Minnie Herwick and Esther Pike acted as judges. Games were played, stunts were tried out and songs closed the evening's fun. Mrs. Amy Tracy and Marion Welch presided at the piano. During the evening, the girls served pop corn, corn balls, fudge, apples, salted nuts and fancy crackers.

Complaint has been made to the town authorities that high-powered rifles are being discharged in the town without reference to the destination of the bullets. Warning is given to such offenders, as in more than one instance, the lead has come unpleasantly close to hitting human targets.

Percy H. Nevers celebrated his birthday with a steak supper at his home to the club members known as Cars Hounds. After the supper the company, the company, the company enjoyed their favorite game until a late hour.

The supper committee for the High school fair met with Harold Nevers, Wednesday evening, to perfect plans for the big annual event.

American Legion boys are selling tickets for the Armistice Ball and Carnival at Norway Opera House Monday evening, Nov. 12. Norton's Orchestra, six pieces will furnish music. Every thing for the fitting observance of Armistice Day. This is under the auspices of Henry Stone Post American Legion.

The Harvest Supper prepared by the Ladies' Circle of the Universalist church will be served Wednesday evening, Nov. 7 at 6:30 sharp.

Oxford Council, No. 14, R. & S. M. will hold a special convention on Friday evening, Nov. 9. Cyrus N. Blanchard of Wilton will make his official visit at this time. The R. and S. M. degrees will be worked.

Mrs. Charles Huff and Charlotte Lovell have received word that their uncle, J. F. Frink of Providence, R. I., has passed away. His age was about 70 years.

The Harvest Supper given by the ladies of the Universalist church will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 7, at Concert Hall. A fine entertainment will be given.

Milletville and Crockett Ridge

The Heywood Club held a Hallowe'en Party at their Club House on Crockett Ridge Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, at 7:30 P. M. Everyone brought a joke for a favor with a stunt written on the paper, then in a grand march they exchanged and opened them and the fun began. There were games too and of course dancing! Hot apple pie and ice cream was on sale; with hot coffee. Col. Dunham led off with his fiddle.

Noble's Corner
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herick and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Russell attended the Farm Bureau Meeting at South Paris, Saturday.

Mrs. Sarah H. Heath is visiting at Howard Heath's a few days.
Perley Russell has finished working at the South Paris High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Muri Merrill were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Curtis.

Ross Upton has finished working for Elsworth Farm.

Guy Curtis has been sawing wood with his gasoline engine for himself, Mark Richardson and Perley Russell. Wayland and Ross Upton have been helping.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Merrill and daughter Vera were at Percy Russell's, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heath and son Cecil were callers at Brookside Farm, Sunday afternoon.

A. STRAW BROOM

Jan. 1st, 1900; Oct. 31st, 1923
Passed away in the Central Maine Power Company's store at Norway. A. H. Friend was a more trustworthy friend, T. Universal Cleaner, who will take his place and do better work.

The body can be seen in the store window lying in state.

Here lies the body of one poor broom. He was good while he lasted, but only half cleaned the room.

A few years ago he stood as high as the ace.

But now the Universal Cleaner has taken his place. Adv.

ALWAYS A GROWING CONCERN

Impossible to Set Boundaries That Shall Confine the Growth of the English Language.

William Shakespeare's vocabulary was about 15,500 words. John Milton needed only 8,000 different words for "Paradise Lost," while the Old Testament has fewer than 6,000 different words. Some people use only about 800 different words, and most of us get along with between 2,000 and 3,000. A few years ago some peasants in rural England, farm laborers, were found who used about 300. Prof. Max Muller (1828-1900), the great Oxford philologist, who was perhaps the greatest authority of his age on this subject, put the number of words in the English language at 100,000. "If we include all the words which have fixed places in the dialect of the country," says "The Book of Knowledge," "and include also many, which we know were spoken in earlier times, we shall have to put the total at 400,000 for the English language." The number is constantly growing. When a new dictionary was made, some years ago, it was found that the new words necessary for use in relation to electricity and electrical appliances numbered over 4,000. A similar increase had taken place with regard to other arts and sciences.

WHAT MAKES THE DIFFERENCE?

Why is one man successful in life from a money standpoint and another ranked as a plain every day man, living and dying with little fame outside his own family? What makes for success, in this way of life? Is it because one man is inherently a winner and the other a quitter, or is there something of chance only knew this thing there would be wonderful changes in the lives of many people. But the fact remains, that one wins and another does not, and no one can tell exactly why.

Many people believe that a man's life is foreordained and that what comes to him comes because it is so written in the book of fate, long before he is born. Such can turn the slightest incidents to things of significance; but for each and all of it is easier to read the story backwards, to trace incidents after they have taken place by light of their own interpretations, than it is to see the significance at the time the things happen. Correctly speaking, for them nothing happens. It all works out according to law. But there are many others who believe that something, we may call it chance, or luck enters into the matter and really decides the thing. An interesting case which comes to my own memory serves as a good illustration for this thing.

Once upon a time two young men, in a western town, went the same day to apply for positions in the biggest concern of their state, a concern which employed hundreds of young men, and had many branches of work. They were young men of the same age, life long friends, both graduates in the same class of the same university, both stenographers by trade, having taken post graduate work at the same business school. To all outward appearances they were situated as much alike as two peas. They were both taken on in the concern; one made stenographer in the office of the general manager, the other assigned to a similar position in another department at the same salary.

To-day, 20 years later, the first one has succeeded his general manager, having advanced along the lines; the other is yet at the department where he began, or has luck entered into the matter, salary as the first chap. What has made the difference?

Some would say one thing, some another; but the question comes to mind suppose the positions of assignment had been reversed, and the one sent to the general manager had been put in the sales department. There was no way of telling at the time whether one was smarter than the other or not, in fact, there was a toss up between them. Fatalists will say the selection and as-

WHAT HE WANTS

When I was a boy I went to school in the country, in the same type of school house common to small towns at that time says a writer. The village was a mile and a half or possibly two miles from the railroad where infrequent trains wended their way from one big commercial center to another. To see the trains was an unusual thing for most of us, except when we were taken to town by our people once in a while for their weekly purchases at the village. But one of our number, a lad named Bill, was of different type. He was what we boys called simply "loony" over trains and engines. He talked engines, he tried to build engines he drew pictures of them, and whenever he could lead the playing, we played train. He used to run away on every possible occasion to the railroad station, and hang round trains. He learned the peculiarities of the different engines which pulled through the station until at the school house, two miles away. He could tell by the whistle whether No. 312 was passing by or No. 176. In short, he earned the name of "Engine Bill" and by that name he became universally known in the farming locality where we lived.

Sixteen years passed and one day I met an old school friend and as such friends do we compared notes on what had happened to our mates since we were all separated by the course of time. Some had gone to college and settled in business in widely diversified places. Some had stayed home on the farm and some had gone the longer road from which there is no return. And what of "Engine Bill"? He was and for all I know now is, the chief engineer of the mechanical department of the New York Central Railroad with headquarters in Buffalo, New York. He had by force of his own will followed the call of the whistles and the bells that swung from the trains, and behind them trailed into the wide world to the work he loved. I suppose Bill is perhaps the happiest of us all, for he knew what he loved, sought and found it without any deviation or uncertainty, and settled down into it to make himself useful and therefore a success.

Blessed is the boy who knows what he wants and has a chance to follow the bent of his soul to the road he fancies; so many men and women are victims of the desires of other people instead of themselves. One in his heart loves form and color, and is forced to sell sugar and soap over a counter all his life. One loves teaching and little children, and becomes a house keeper of a bank man. Another wants to be a chemist, though he doesn't know how to express it, but instead goes into a factory or on to a farm. This young man would love to be a machinist, but his people rebel, thinking it not sufficiently high sounding perhaps and he is sent to college for an academic course, and lands in a third rate teacher's job. And so it goes.

Children take queer notions to be sure; not all of them are to be given sufficient attention to emphasize them. But every child has something he likes better, does more hastily and happily than any other thing, and a she grows older he should be watched and guided and allowed to have some expression of his own tastes and judgment. It is not for nothing that the boy always wants to play doctor and cure imaginary ills for dolls and for other children; and another one always is buying and selling, trading and exchanging. Beneath the play is an instinct a tendency, which, rightly guided can form his life, but wrongly treated, can break it. Almost any one of us, if we search our hearts can find blighted desires, and thwarted ambitions to be other than what we are. Generally, it has been settled for us by unseeing parents, who had their ideas of what they wanted their children to do, but no ideas of what children wanted for themselves.

BIRDS ON THE FARM

We little realize the value of the birds to the farm. Scientists have discovered that in Massachusetts alone the birds alone consume 21 bushels of insects a day, besides great quantities of weed seeds. In freely performing this great service for the farmer the birds show more kindly spirit toward us than we show to them.

Children should be encouraged in the care and study of birds. By scattering chaff, crumbs and seed at favorable points they can attract the birds and sustain life through the severe winters.

We have at our windows the jay, chickadee, tree sparrow, brown creeper, downy and hairy woodpeckers, goldfinch, purple finch and junco. All winter we have been able to study these little fellows and watch their habits and peculiarities.

During a recent snowstorm we counted 51 visitors to one feed box in the space of five minutes. Could a winter be dull and long with such a possession?

In the summer a bath constructed from a shallow pan, with gravel at the bottom and about a half-inch of water, the pan placed upon a stump, will add to the comfort of many a bird and be a constant source of joy to the household.

The cat is supposed to be a terrible enemy of the birds; surely one house cat is enough for any family, and the birds are of more value from the point of use and beauty. A trap properly cared for is generally more successful as a mouse exterminator than a well fed cat that forgets her duty.

Now that the mad rush for money is beginning to slow down, why not take a little time to study and enjoy the beauty that is at hand. Farming can be all drab and drudgery or it can be pleasant, instructive work.

The "Chic-a-dee-dee" of thanks as we put fresh sunflower seeds into the window box is an adequate recompense for going without a new hat or a movie.

So let us all do what we can do to increase the number of our little friends and make our most glorious state a large aviary.—Independent Reporter.

BRYANT'S POND

Mrs. Guy Hemingway went to a Portland hospital, Monday, for an operation. Mrs. E. R. Freeman is sick in the hospital at New London, Ct. Mrs. Freeman was not very well when they went from here a few weeks ago.

James Day is very sick with neuralgia around the heart; he has a trained nurse.

A. Mont Chase has had his store painted outside.

Next Sunday, Nov. 4, will be Harvest Sunday.

The Ladies Aid will have a harvest supper at the Grange dining room, Nov. 7th. There will be vegetables on sale. Mrs. Sybil Johnson is with her mother, Mrs. Guy Hemingway in a Portland Hospital.

RE-DEDICATION SERVICE AT BOLSTER'S MILLS

The Methodist church at Bolster's Mills was re-dedicated with appropriate exercises, Friday the 26th.

Extensive repairs and alterations have been made in the edifice, greatly improving both interior and exterior.

The program was as follows:
Afternoon service:
Music, Miss Mona Green and Mr. Merrill Organ and Violin

Opening Statement, D. B. Holt, Dist. Supt.
Hymn 681
Prayer closing with The Lord's Prayer

Scripture, Heb. 10: 19-26, Rev. L. W. Whitman of the Harrison Federated church.
Hymn 662
Report from building committee E. L. Gay

Presentation by the trustees
Sermon Rev. D. B. Holt
Responsive Reading, Psalm 122

Music Miss Green and Mr. Merrill
Dedication and Benediction
Public supper was served at Masonic hall at 6 P. M. served by the Ladies Aid.

At 7.30 devotions were resumed in the church with the following exercises:
Hymn 208 Rev. D. B. Holt
Prayer Chester French Jr.

Vocal Solo Chester French Jr.
Responsive Reading Mrs. Grace
Music, Quartette composed of Mrs. Grace

Calif. Mrs. Elizabeth Joslin, Chester French Jr. and Chester P. Gates accompanied by Mrs. Clara Howe all of Norway.
Scripture Rev. J. G. Rogers
Offering
Benediction Chester P. Gates

The church was decorated with beautiful flowers, adding greatly to its attractiveness. Many former attendants came from a distance to be present at the exercises. The occasion was one of great spiritual enjoyment and uplift.

The church is now attractive in appearance, without and within, and well arranged for the needs of the local society.

The roof was repaired and newly shingled, with new finish at eaves and gables. A tower has been added, and the front changed by moving the former entrance lobby to the westerly side where it forms the pulpit alcove. The new entrance door, the two beautiful memorial windows, and the addition of a stained glass window in the gable, add greatly to the appearance from the street.

The interior has been changed by dividing the old room, so that there is now a very convenient vestry at the front, an auditorium of attractive proportions and of size sufficient for all probable needs.

The ceiling is of steel painted white. The side walls are of a light brown tint, harmonizing well with the white.

The whole building outside is a clear white.

The entire expense has been a little over $2000.00, all of which is paid except a present indebtedness of about $400.00.

The work done is a credit to the building committee and to the cordial cooperation of the residents, former members, and summer visitors who had part in the enterprise.

IMPROPER DANCING

Wriggling, squirming, jazzy dancing is losing its popularity in nearly every part of the United States, and modesty, propriety and reserve are coming back in the dance halls, according to Fenton Bott, national director of dancemasters.

The touching of faces, semi-embraces and excess of muscular response to overdone syncopation are now taboo in virtually every dance hall in America, said Mr. Bott. Men and women have swung back to the human normal of propriety and good taste, he said.

"The most undesirable of jazz dancing was the result of adding a dreamy oriental atmosphere to highly syncopated music," continued Mr. Bott. "It is almost impossible properly to supervise dancing when the time of the selection is broken up by a great number of beats."

When the jazziest of music is played, it is hardly possible for the dancers not to respond.

"Improper deportment on the floors of dancing schools and public halls has become a rarity in the last three years. The campaign conducted by the National Association of Dancing Masters for clean dancing is partly responsible for the change. It also is to be credited to the people themselves."

"Private clubs and cafes have been beyond the influence of the association, and in these privileged places jazz dancing in the extreme may still prevail, but the bulk of the nations dancers, those who attend schools and public halls, are dancing with as much modesty, propriety and reserve as ever was seen in the days of the waltz, polka, schottische and their running mates."

"The waltz will never be dropped, and the two-step is still with us in the fox-trot, but I believe what is known as the new school dance has come to stay."

"The West has adopted the reform more quickly and perhaps more thoroughly than the East."

VEGETABLE EATERS

Many people who do not care for much meat in their diet look forward to the autumn as a time of special feasting on the garden vegetables that they prize.

A supply of plump specimens of beans, carrots and corn looks better to them than the richest joints of meat, and they gain in weight and take on new color under this diet.

Science on the whole does not seem to favor the vegetarian theory that once had a marked hold. It feels that the healthiest people are those that eat both meat and vegetables. But for every one person who eats too much green stuff there are a dozen who eat too much flesh and fail to realize the benefit that comes from the products of the garden.

The habits of the vegetable eaters promote the free functioning of the body, and one reason for the health that country people are apt to gain may be that they eat garden stuff so freely.

A lot of people who live on the shady side of Easy street can't afford it.

Buick Open Cars are Stormtight

Perfect protection is provided from rain and wind. The lower frame of the windshield fits into a permanent rubber grommet. Moulded rubber seals every joint between the frames and posts. At the top a new weatherstrip, steel reinforced, excludes all air that might enter between the windshield and top, and side curtains button to the windshield, instead of the posts, covering the slight crack between them.

In addition to these and numerous other refinements, Buick four-wheel brakes afford a greater degree of safety on all models.

THE STEP BEYOND FEDERAL AID

Common Sense Applied to the National Road-Building Program

It is generally recognized that existing roads fall into four classes: Interstate roads, state roads (important to the whole country), country roads (important to the whole country), and local roads, serving only a small part of a county.

The United States Government recognizes the importance of interstate road by providing in the Federal Aid Act, that interstate roads of a mileage not to exceed seven per cent of the total system, may receive Federal aid in construction.

States recognize the importance of the state road, and build it, often wholly from state funds. Counties build their own roads, although many such are enterprises constructed by a community of less size than the county.

State roads and interstate roads usually join. Some state roads may not have good connections across a state line, many interstate roads become truly national in scope, and become known by their national name, as the National Old Trails Road, the Lincoln Highway, the Lee Highway, etc.

It is the argument of those who believe that the United States should go further than Federal aid, and become the original constructor and permanent maintainer of truly national roads. They truly serve the whole nation, and should be built by and maintained by the whole nation, just as there are state roads which truly serve the whole state and which the states recognize are rightly built and maintained by the state.

Before a modern highway can be properly and economically built, the taxpayers must ask, and the experts must answer, a number of questions, a number of very pertinent questions.

It must be determined what the highway can, and second, what it should with the first, is the problem of what sum yearly can, and what sum should be spent for maintenance. The better the road in the beginning, the less the necessary maintenance, and vice versa.

Mrs. John L. Tubbs

The funeral of Mrs. John L. Tubbs, Lucy Nason, was held at the home where she passed away Monday morning, after a short illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Tubbs was the daughter of the late S. B. and Susan Nason and was born May 25, 1873, her father's family moving from Bridgton to the farm on which she died, when she was a small child. She attended school in the schoolhouse near the home.

June 19, 1892 she was united in marriage to John L. Tubbs, beginning their married life in Greenwood. Later they moved to Casco and while there they lost their little girl. For the past twenty years they have resided in Waterford. Mr. Tubbs buying the farm of his wife's father, and this has been their home. Last winter they stayed in South Paris, but after twelve years of ill health she became comparatively well and this summer they came back to the farm planning to stay. Both seemed very happy to do so.

She had been a member of Evergreen Rebekah Lodge for 32 years. Beside her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mary, wife of M. F. Charles of South Paris and two grandchildren. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Martha Black of North Waterford, and Mrs. Phoebe Littlefield of Lovell. There are three brothers, E. H. Nason of South Paris, J. Walker Nason of North Waterford and Noah Nason of New York. Then there are many more distant relatives, some of whom came to the funeral.

The attending clergyman was the Rev. Chester Gore Miller of South Paris. Interment in the South Paris cemetery. The flowers were many and beautiful. It seemed fitting that she, who so loved flowers, should be laid amid a profusion of them.

Mr. Tubbs plans to stay on the farm alone. Much sympathy is felt for him and the daughter.

The following is the list of flowers:

New Sedan

Changes featured in the new Ford Sedan make it a better looking, roomier car.

A higher radiator with a trim apron at its base lends dignity befitting a closed car. The higher hood and enlarged cowl curving gracefully to the dash give a stylish sweep to its body lines, and afford additional leg room for occupants of the front seat.

All body fittings—window regulators, door grips, door latch levers, door lock, dome light—are finished in nickel. The upholstery carries a fine dark line on a soft brown background that does not easily show dust or dirt. Silk window curtains to harmonize for the three rear windows enhance the style of the car and add to the comfort of its passengers. See the new Sedan and other new Ford body styles at our showroom.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

NOVEMBER IS "OPEN SEASON"

"Open Season" These words stand for a world of joy to every sportsman—and now it is open season on almost every kind of game. In uplands and lowlands, marsh and covert, sportsmen are enjoying the thrill of the hunt. Wherever there is game, there are gunners winning fun and heightened health from the oldest sport.

The Indians called September the "Hunters' Moon," but it is November to which the hunters now look forward most eagerly the whole year round. Those who cannot go on long hunting trips are envying their more fortunate fellows who can—and there are but few red-blooded, two-fisted men who are not managing somehow to squeeze at least several days' shooting into their month's activities.

The old hunting instinct may lie dormant the rest of the year. But there is something in these crisp, cool days that forces it wide-awake. As Kipling puts it, sportsmen hear "the red gods call." Whether for wildfowl or the winged or four-footed dwellers in the woods or fields, everybody's going hunting. And 'tis it a grand and glorious feeling. No swarms of black flies on mosquitoes or even gnats to disturb your peace or to take the edge off your pleasure.

Ask men why they go hunting. They'll give you many reasons. Some will tell you that there's no better preparation for the winter's work than time spent in the open matching their quickness and wits against those of the game they're hunting. They'll say there's no peep-producer that can compare with the clear air of a brisk Fall day redolent with the tang of the forest or the salt of the bay—that hunting's a real efficiency measure. To bring home a good bag, a man must be on the alert! Still others prize most highly a pleasure of a more material kind: venison, roast duck, quail on toast, stuffed geese, partridge or grouse, rabbit or squirrel popovers.

There are most as many reasons given for going hunting as there are hunters, but all agree on one thing: not to go hunting in November is to miss a barrel of fun, to pass up a big part of the joy of life. For a sportsman can enjoy no happier time than a clear, snappy November day tramping the fields behind a pair of good dogs in quest of quail—unless it be going gunning through the brush for grouse or rabbit or the swamp for snipe—especially Jack snipe with the perplexing "cork screw flight," that so sport—or waiting in the blind for geese or duck that are wary and flying high. Wildfowl are flying South and testing the marksmanship of the most experienced gunners. "Br'er Rabbit's" trail leads to real sport. Bob White, grouse from your feet most anywhere out of town. Game is plentiful and sportsmen's supplies are in great demand, according to local merchants. All in all, it's a most successful season! "Good hunting, brother!"

Birthday Gathering

About thirty-five neighbors and friends passed a very pleasant evening with Mrs. Sybil Lamb on Oct. 25, it being her birthday. It was a great surprise to her when the people began to arrive in numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kemp had telephoned her they planned to spend the evening with her, but she had no idea of anyone else calling on her, but she soon became settled in her mind why so many cars were coming into her yard.

Mrs. Anna Kemp and several helpers soon became the hostesses of the evening and Mrs. Laamb was recognized as the guest of honor. Several gifts were received, including many birthday cards, booklets and letters. A box of confectionery from Mrs. Etta Ridlon of Norway, a beautiful bouquet of dahlias from Mrs. Evelina Brawn, a large market basket filled with fruit, confectionery and nuts from Mrs. G. T. Elliott.

During the evening sandwiches, cookies, several kinds of cake with ice cream were served by the ladies also chocolates and fudge. A large delicious cake covered with candles all lighted, designating Mrs. Lamb's age, was brought and precyrus Leach Sunday, Oct. 21.

It was a very pleasant occasion long to be remembered by all, especially by Mrs. Lamb who will ever cherish in her memory the evening of Oct. 25, 1923. She expressed her appreciation and gratitude to her friends, at this time of her great loneliness but words failed her. It will be remembered that only a few weeks ago she lost her beloved faithful husband.

Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Kneeland, Gertrude and Mr. Gale all of Lebanon were in town over the week end.

Mrs. Winfield Reed had for Sunday guests her uncle and aunt from Auburn and her brother Arthur Haskell, from Poland. They all attended church with her.

CARTER'S KNIT UNDERWEAR

More Elastic, Better Fitting Winter Underwear

Carter's

Union Suits

Pick up any Carter garment and examine it closely. At once you are struck with the actual beauty of the fabric itself—its fine even texture, its soft, almost silk-like feeling. Stretch it between your hands and you are amazed at its delightful elasticity—its easy give and springiness.

This specially prepared fabric itself is one reason why you feel a new sense of ease and comfort in your Carter union suit.

The difference in the fabric makes Carter underwear keep its snug fitting shapeliness after long wear and many washings.

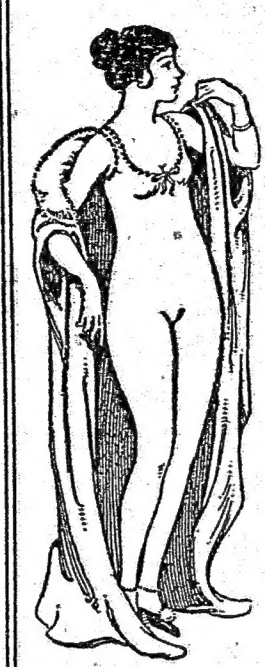

Designed and cut expertly to fit your figure

Long enough where many union suits are uncomfortably short, full enough where union suits sometimes draw, smooth fitting where some union suits wrinkle in unneeded fullness—this better fit is the result of care and skill in designing and styling. An expert studies and solves these problems of fit and shapeliness, living models are used, infinite experiment is made, careful records are kept—every little "out" is made right before your Carter underwear is cut.

Tailored by experts on machines that seem almost human so cleverly do they stitch seams very, very flat, so neatly do they stitch in reinforcements, so securely do they put in those everlasting Carter button holes and fasten on those never-come-off Carter buttons.

If you have yet to wear your first Carter union suit—go today and see the difference the Carter idea makes in fabric, in cut and in finish. Your choice of styles is wide. It would be impossible to illustrate them all on this page. Just now our stocks are full for it is now the time of year when millions of women who wear only Carter are making their purchases for cold weather. All weights of cotton, cotton and wool, wool, silk and wool, and silk—every fabric and every style for women and children of all ages.

THE STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENTS ARE COOPERATING IN THE CONTROL OF THE PINE BLISTER RUST

More than one woodland owner has lately had his attention called to the condition of his pine woodlot because of the attack of the white pine blister rust. Blister Rust agents working for the state and federal governments are calling on pine owners and showing them what the rust is doing in their own woodlots. Many of these owners have been surprised that their pines were already attacked, for they had not realized that the rust was spreading so rapidly or that it had invaded their own town.

These specialists who are located in each of the pine districts of the Northeast and Lake States are cooperating with the County Farm Bureaus. They give advice to timber owners on forestry matters, particularly the protection of white pine from the blister rust, in the same way as the Farm Bureau agent furnishes assistance or advice on agricultural matters. Not only are personal calls made on pine owners but demonstration meetings are held where groups of owners are shown the disease on pine as well as on currant and gooseberry bushes, and shown the best methods of destroying these bushes, which spread the disease. In some states, crews are formed and trained by the blister rust agents, who destroy these bushes for the owners or for the towns.

This work of controlling the blister rust began in 1916, in an experimental way, and on a small scale. Methods of control were perfected and costs reduced. The area protected each year from this disease increased, till in 1922 there were 472,887 acres cleared of currant and gooseberry bushes at a cost of less than 20 cents per acre. This was an increase in area of 82 per cent. over 1921. The disease itself, however has spread in this period, until at the present time it may be found in every pine county in the Northeast, and in most towns in these counties. Extensive surveys show that about 20 per cent. of the white pine in northeastern New York and about 7 per cent. of the white pine of Maine and New Hampshire are attacked by the blister rust in areas where currant and gooseberry bushes are still present.

The work of destroying currants and gooseberries in white pine districts must be speeded up, if great damage to the pines is to be averted. To this end, pine owners are advised to communicate with the blister rust agent care of the County Farm Bureau, or through the State Forester.

TWO WAYS TO TRAVEL

Many people at this time of year are setting out on more or less extensive travel trips, and preparing to cover considerable distances and spend a good deal of money. Will they merely satisfy a certain restlessness, or will there be some addition to their intelligence and equipment for life. There are a lot of people who could go around the world, and see famous sights which relatively few Americans have gazed upon, and could give no intelligent idea of what they had seen except that they were able to make an interesting comment upon it.

And there are other folks who keep their eyes wide open on every little trip, even if it is only an automobile excursion. They are keenly interested to note how people live, the differences between cities and states and sections, the characteristics and personality of communities. When they get home they could tell more interestingly of what they had seen in a four days journey, than these other folks would of what they had observed going around the world.

Many people on such a trip seem to have their minds fixed principally on the things they have to eat and the accommodation they get in hotels. They can give a good account of the meals they enjoyed or the good or poor service they got. Their whole minds seem to be set on these mere creature comforts, but they could not give an intelligent account of the countries they visited.

Unless people have their eyes open to see something of the inner meaning of the sights that come before their eyes they do not get a satisfactory return for their travel expense.

TROUBLED WITH WORMS GIRL HAD TWO CONVULSIONS

Signs of worms in children are: De-ranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full stomach with pains, pale face, eyes heavy, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, or troublesome dreams, slow fever. The safe method for ridding the child of worms is to use Dr. True's Elixir.

Mrs. Harry A. Salley, Dover, Me., writes: "My daughter has been troubled with worms, had two convulsions and all the symptoms of worms. I began to give her Dr. True's Elixir and noticed a decided change for the better." Always have a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. 40c, 60c, $1.20.

WITH HAPPINESS

We heard a stranger philosophizing about the feverishness of a visit. "One evening it was a ride, the next a trip to the movies, the next dancing, and so on. Always restless. We're getting so we can't sit still." "Do we deserve Stevenson's advice and indictment: "We are in such haste to be doing, to be writing, to be gathering gear, to make our voice audible a moment in the derivative silence of eternity, that we forget that one thing of which these are not the parts—namely to live. We run to and fro like frightened sheep. And now you are to ask yourself if, when all is done, you would not have been better to sit by the fire at home, and be happy thinking. To sit still and contemplate—to remember the faces of women without desire, to be pleased by the great deeds of men without envy, to be everything and everywhere in sympathy, and yet content to remain where and what you are—is not this to know both wisdom and virtue, and to dwell with happiness." When Winter Comes

The skin is easily harmed by cold weather and wintry winds. The hands and face should be protected against roughness and chaps by the use of a good lotion or cream.

For this purpose we particularly recommend such well-known products as CARA NOME VANISHING CREAM, LEMON COCOA BUTTER LOTION, REXALL CREAM OF ALMONDS, RIKER'S ILASOL and JUNEVE VANISHING CREAM.

Keep your skin soft and white by using these guaranteed preparations. Any one of them will also serve admirably as a face powder base.

THOROUGH PREPARATION

Many young people, about now, are questioning whether or not to quit school for good and go to work, or to take some further preparation for their desired occupations. It is well for them to reflect on the greatly superior reward that the world gives to competence and good training.

For instance, a friend from another state was telling recently of his daughter, who had entered the nursing profession. Learning of her ambition, he interviewed the management of a hospital and learned that they could give her a two year training course. But while such study would be very practical and helpful, it did not go deep enough to suit this father. He wanted his daughter to understand more of the principles of medicine, the nature and causes and treatment of disease. So he had her take a thorough five year course adapted to that end in a college having a department of nursing.

When she finished that course she began work in a city hospital. Within a few weeks the head of the hospital was taken sick and had to resign and this young college trained nurse was chosen, above all others, to take her place. If she had not had this special training it would probably have taken years to secure such advancement.

While an instance of this kind may be regarded as extreme, still it is constantly happening in all callings that well trained young people will make rapid progress, while others drag along for years doing the same thing over and over again, and perhaps losing their initiative as the result of deadening routine.

The well trained beginner takes hold of new work with a confidence and assurance that brings ample reward for all the effort of preparation. Difficulties that seem insurmountable to people of imperfect training, seem but slight matters of every day detail to those who have mastered them.

Enthusiasm is a fine lubricant if the brakes hold.

Annual Sale

The Annual Sale, Harvest Supper and entertainment Thursday passed off very successfully notwithstanding all the special things that were on at the same time. The three quilts found ready sale, as also did the aprons, fortune rose bush, plants, candy and ice cream.

Everybody enjoyed the bountiful supper. The three act drama, "Spruce Cone and Bunchberry," by the young people was well taken and very pretty. The drama pictured a grouchy, unhappy family made happy by a little girl who came from the city to board with them through her summer vacation and brought with her the Camp Fire spirit, which transformed the family. The last act is a real Gaiety. The last act is a real Gaiety.

The Specialties were filled in first by the illustrated song, and followed by piano rendering of an Indian song by Mrs. D. A. Grover, which with the songs that followed were all in keeping with the Camp spirit of the whole program.

Miss Graves, with her sweet voice, with Miss Burnham accompanist, who so kindly assisted with the specialties was the featured part of the entertainment.

Miss Graves sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning," while it being illustrated on the screen and then between the first and second acts two gypsy songs in costume and between the second and third acts and at the close, three Indian songs in costume.

The whole affair was well attended and a good sum realized for the benefit of the church repair fund.

A Norway employer: "Everyone is roasting the automobile but I am grateful it is here and because most everyone has a car. The car owners at our plant are the best and the steadiest workers. They even work harder and are on the job more regularly than those who own their own homes. The reason is that their cars keep them strapped; they have to keep working their heads off to meet the monthly payments and to buy gasoline."

"A sharp tongue whistles off business."
